WINTER QUARTER 2017-2018, DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH, GRADUATE COURSES, JUNE 14, 2017

Course and Title	Days and Time	Instructor
ENG 407 LANGUAGE AND STYLE FOR WRITERS Language and Style Core Requirement in the MAE and MAWP Lang/Lit/Teaching/Publishing Elective in the MAWP (If not used to fulfill Language and Style Core Requirement) Elective in the MAE and MAWP	M 6:00-9:15 PM	Craig Sirles
ENG 429 TOPICS IN RENAISSANCE LITERATURE: Shakespeare and Rome A study of Shakespeare’s career-long engagement with Roman literature, mythology, and history. We will use both primary archives and recent criticism to consider Rome as, not only a source for Shakespeare’s poetic and dramatic writing, but also a unique experiment in defining English literary success at the turn of the seventeenth century. MAE: Renaissance Requirement; Elective MAWP: LLPT Elective; Open Elective	M 6:00-9:15 PM	Megan Heffernan
ENG 453 STUDIES IN MODERN DRAMA This course will provide a broad overview of twentieth-century drama—a century in which dramatists sought to bring unconventional subject matter to the stage and experimented with new dramatic forms. As we read plays by Henrik Ibsen, Bernard Shaw, Eugene O’Neill, Tennessee Williams, Samuel Beckett, Harold Pinter, Tom Stoppard, Caryl Churchill, August Wilson, Wole Soyinka, and others, we will consider how these playwrights manipulated dramatic conventions in response to social, political, or cultural developments such as the feminist and civil rights movements, the rise of Marxism and socialism, the world wars, and post-colonialism. With the help of selected readings in dramatic theory and criticism, we will also explore such topics as modernism and postmodernism in theatre, the debate about dramatic realism, the concept of ‘absurdism’ as it relates to the theatre, stage semiotics and environments, and theories of performance. MAE: 20th/21st Century Requirement; Elective MAWP: LLPT Elective; Open Elective	W 6:00-9:15 PM	Rebecca Cameron
ENG 455 MODERN IRISH LITERATURE MAE: 20th/21st Century Requirement; Elective MAWP: LLPT Elective; Open Elective	TH 6:00-9:15 PM	James Fairhall
ENG 464 STUDIES IN AMERICAN AUTHORS: Melville and Ellison Moby-Dick (1851) has been called the greatest American novel, yet in the nineteenth century, it was a critical and commercial flop. Just over a century later, Ralph Waldo Ellison published Invisible Man and it was immediately hailed as a masterpiece. In considering the opposite trajectories of these two ambitious novels as we read them closely over the course of the semester, we also will consider the relationship between politics and art, and race and representation, in the mid-nineteenth and –twentieth centuries, the ongoing evolution of the American literary canon, and continuing debates about “great” literature. Additional writings by Melville and Ellison as well as literary criticism and theory will contextualize our focus on the two substantial novels. Students should be prepared for a heavy reading load and to write two close readings and a final 12-15 page research paper.	W 6:00-9:15 PM	Marcy Dinius

ENG 471 BOOK AND MEDIA HISTORY Hybrid English 471 (Hybrid) is an introduction to book history, analytic bibliography, and digital humanities research methods. We will cover theoretical topics in book and media history from the first decades of mechanical printing to contemporary e-book formats. The course will include historical and theoretical readings and hands-on activities with software tools. MAE: Core Requirement MAWP: Not Allowed	T 6:00-9:15 PM Hybrid Face-to-Face meeting dates are TBA	John Shanahan
ENG 477 TOPICS IN PUBLISHING: American Literary Magazine: Idealists and Happy Fools This hybrid online AND face-to-face course makes use of digital media, archival collections, and experiential editorial practice, to examine the American literary magazine, from inception to contemporary practice. We explore the missions, functions, styles, personalities, experiments, and aesthetics of select little magazines and literary journals published from the early 20th century to the present day, particularly those representative of great moments of change in both political and literary culture. Using digital archives, DePaul Special Collections, and field trips to the Newberry Library and the Read/Write library archives, class participants compare and contrast the ways literary journals develop in response to changing times, in keeping with innovations in literary form and in tandem with changes in publishing technologies. Students also deliberate over submissions and choose at least one creative work to publish in the national literary journal of the urban essay arts, SLAG GLASS CITY. The outcome is an in-depth understanding of the literary journal's relationship to editorial vision, book publishing and individual author's careers. NOTE: The class will begin online with immediate required activities the first evening of the quarter and will meet face-to-face for the first time at the start of Week 2. Face-to-Face Dates: Tuesday Evenings, 6-9:15 PM—January 9, January 23rd, February 27th, 6 March. All other required weekly activities occur online. Field Trip Dates (optional but recommended): Saturday Mornings, 10AM -1 PM (approx)—February 3rd and February 17th. MAWP: LLPT Elective; Open Elective MAE: Elective	T 6:00-9:15 PM Face-to-Face meeting dates: 1/9, 1/23, 2/27, 3/6	Barrie Borich

ENG 484 WRITING WORKSHOP TOPICS: Poetry and the Art of Seeing The best descriptions describe consciousness, the mind playing over the world of matter, finding something various and complex enough to reflect back the complexities of the self that's doing the looking. We will study and practice poetic techniques that allow us to capture the unsayability of what being is. Indeed, we will study many modern and contemporary poets to learn how they achieve a sense of liberating uncertainty. MAWP: Writing Workshop Requirement; Open Elective MAE: Elective	M 6:00-9:15 PM	Chris Green

ENG 484 WRITING WORKSHOP TOPICS: Time and Place in Fiction "Every story would be another story, and unrecognizable as art, if it took up its characters and plot and happened somewhere else," the novelist Eudora Welty once wrote. In this workshop, we will focus on the role of place and time in fiction, examining the ways in which they give rise to character and interact with other story elements. The course will place a heavy emphasis on reading as well as writing. MAWP: Writing Workshop Requirement; Open Elective MAE: Elective	T 6:00-9:15 PM	Miles Harvey
ENG 484 WRITING WORKSHOP TOPICS: Review and Interview MAWP: Writing Workshop Requirement; Open Elective MAE: Elective	TH 6:00-9:15 PM	Sarah Fay
ENG 491 SCIENCE WRITING: Nature and Science Writing Science and Nature writing is an immersion in the fun of writing about the natural world with the art of the novelist. We meet scientists and hear from guest professionals, reading works covering the inner and outer realms of the mind and body. It's a great course for well-paying jobs with travel, every bit as creative as fiction and poetry. Absolutely no prior science background is necessary. If you liked Cosmos, The Jinx or Serial, this is a little-known writing field looking for you. ENG 509 INTERNSHIP Online By permission only. Registration is by permission of C. Green cgreen1@depaul.edu "Internship in English" is a four-credit course designed to compliment your English course of study along with your internship experience (100 hours of internship work). Using literature, film, and career guides, the class explores both academic and pragmatic aspects of work. We will analyze definitions of and strategies for career success, what makes work meaningful, the positive and negative power of technology in the workplace, and issues of ethics and social justice for employers and employees. Most practically, we will explore current career opportunities for English graduates and reflect on your ideal career paths, and ask you to create job-finding strategies. Ultimately, we will relate our readings and discussions to your internship and apply what we learn to your future career. There is no pre-requisite or prior knowledge needed to take this course.
